'Open' in Stillness : My Guides? My Life Purpose? Open to Guidance?

Image of a Bishop stone sculpture on top of his stone cask tomb (in cathedral?) which 'comes to life', awakes/arises - walks solemnly/silently to right; later followed by 2 (or 3?) turbaned men dressed colourfully/royally (like the Wisemen from the East seen on Christmas Cards – Turks?)

Bishop of where? Canterbury? Truro? York? Durham? Somewhere relevant to me?

Image fades without resolving thoughts/queries

New image; Christchurch (Dorset) – an Abbey not Cathedral? but yes, well known to me so perhaps an Abbot? - Christchurch history needs researching And Christchurch is southerly starting point of my predicted Janus/Jana N/S line – locally connecting with Hengistbury Head, Salisbury, Stone Henge, etc, etc – family connections (my mother & Sally living on 'line' for a time) – splitting Britain almost equally East & West needs looking at again is Findhorn connected on the line (previous doubt)?

Guidance: “ Remember not just straight ley lines but snaking paths of interconnected places/energies – look at all this afresh and it may reveal new thought & understanding ”

Any relevance of recent readings/connections? ROC's diaries & Gordon Lindsay's statements on LBL, NDE, OOB, Souls, Soul Groups, Aspects, etc? Chris Street's book on Earth Stars (Leys, Sacred Geometry, Spirit of Place, etc – family connections? Why now based here at Findhorn?

Guidance: “Investigation may open up clearer understanding and lead to 'mapping' (like Chris Street) of sacred geometrical patterns stemming from the JJ Line; Do not give up when results may seem negative – another fresh view may answer positively and lead forward . . . A complex pattern may be found, that is ongoing . . . worth looking at – what is to lose? ”

Subsequent Research:

Christchurch: Founded 650AD as mission of St Birinus, 1st Bishop of Dorchester (Oxfordshire) – ( By pure chance I visited his amazing/special large 'cathedral church' on family “Three Men in a Boat” 100th year Thames 'pilgrimage'); Christchurch first known as Twynham (= 'between rivers' - Avon & Stour) has water (transport) connection north to Fordingbridge, Salisbury & Old Sarum (i.e. all along JJ Line).

Christchurch Harbour (was very important) established by Alfred (= 'Elf Council') The Great 849-899 King of Wessex (loved, respected & merciful ruler – established much good that lives on throughout England).

Christchurch 'Priory' 1094 (so not an Abbey) in Diocese of Winchester (Bishop ?) on the original 'mission' site; became known then as town of Christchurch. Christ Energy.

A cathedral was constructed at Old Sarum & consecrated 1092 (Bishop Osmund) and later completed by 3rd bishop (1107) of Old Sarum Roger of Salisbury (ruler of England while Henry 1 was in Normandy – 'he claimed' one half of England! (JJ line divides 50:50!) - 'Investitures Controversy' re Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury). Much else regarding 'church & crown' national power balance during this period with on-going implications (study further later perhaps?).

Hengistbury Head ancient sandstone peninsular that forms Christchurch Harbour (on JJ line) - Iron Age hill settlement overlaying late Stone Age 10,500BC habitation (river connection north along JJ line to Old Sarum, etc – on Alfred Watkins 'The Old Straight Track' 1925 main example 'Ley', which initiated my interest).

Google Images: Which Bishop? - nothing resonated!?

However out of Google came the (startling) news that jut 2-days ago bones were exhumed in Winchester that are believed to be Alfred The Great – a sort of 'arising' from the stone/dead . An image of his is not unlike a 'bishop' but with leather helmet rather than mitred hat so could this be the 'vision'? - Alfred The Great newly arising from his 'tomb'?

Connections with Winchester are many, including Sally there as student and graduating in Winchester Cathedral.

Three Wise Men?: Closest image to 'vision'.

Other than they are also major 'good' kings with international influence, the connection is not as yet clear.

So, best lead is now to research Alfred The Great in connection with the JJ Line whilst looking again at the places on the Line, including best/possible extrapolations through Scotland (Findhorn? Could it be on the Line?). Some of the other researched findings may well 'pop up'

And they did !!!

Google Earth 'projection' shows JJ line/flow straight through UH Powerpoint.

And the other local Findhorn Flows project through through Iona and Holy Island Abbeys
